Sandy Montag

Senior Corporate Vice President
IMG Sports and Entertainment/Managing Director of Clients

Sandy Montag is Senior Corporate Vice President of IMG Sports and Entertainment responsible for the operations of the Clients Group. This unit includes Broadcasting, Speakers, Literary, Coaching, and Talent Marketing. IMG represents some of the most popular athletes, broadcasters, coaches, speakers and personalities including John Madden, Bob Costas, James Brown, Jim Nantz, Peyton Manning, Eli Manning, Pat Conroy, Cesar Millan, Ming Tsai, Bob Knight, and Tom Coughlin.

Mr. Montag has spent his entire professional career at IMG, joining the company in 1985. He started as an assistant to John Madden, traveling the country with Mr. Madden by train and on the first "Madden Cruiser." Mr. Montag became a Vice President in 1991 and a Senior Vice President responsible for the day-to-day operations of the Broadcasting Division in 1995. He was promoted to his current position in 2005.

In his free time, Mr. Montag enjoys coaching AYSO Soccer and attending his children's sporting events. He is also active in several charities, serving as President of the Irwin and Judith Montag Memorial Fund which raises money for research on Amyloidosis and Heart Disease. In addition, he serves on the advisory boards for Madden Charities, Tom Coughlin's "Jay Fund Foundation" and the Alan T Brown Foundation.

Mr. Montag resides in Westchester, NY with his wife and two children.

In 1988, Alan T. Brown sustained a spinal cord injury (SCI) that left him paralyzed from the chest down. On that day, a split-second changed Alan's life forever. As a result of this injury the Alan T Brown Foundation was established.

Since its inception, ATBF has been a major supporter of scientific and medical research initiatives worldwide. ATBF's Outreach Program provides insight and information, empowering SCI individuals to develop a level of independence. The Foundation is proud of this vital resource and support system which has impacted and changed many lives.

The Stogel Family 2008 Standing Tall Award

The inaugural Alan T Brown Foundation Golf and Tennis Tournament was coordinated by Phil Stogel*, his wife Florence, and their sons Yale and Larry in 1989. This 20th Tournament is a tribute and celebration to the Stogel's for establishing this event which is the Foundation's signature annual fundraiser.
