

What will my health insurance cover?

Can I return to school and continue to pursue my education?

Where do I find a good caretaker, therapist or outpatient therapy?

How can I obtain a wheelchair and who will maintain it?

Will I be able to drive again?

Will I be able to have children?

How do I reach different destinations? How accessible is public transportation?

Will I be able to return to my home and make it accessible?

If not, what are my options?

The Alan T Brown Foundation is here to help navigate the system. So many questions are asked 24/7 from newly and long-term injured individuals and their families. The list of topics and concerns is endless.

The information provided is coupled with compassion and knowledge. Long-term bonds of those we serve are formed.

Barriers are crossed, creating a message that is clear - that in time there is life after a spinal cord injury.

Your contribution, support and partnership with the Alan T Brown Foundation enable the staff and peer mentors to continue their important work.

Your generosity will enable ATBF to continue to fund spinal cord research and its extensive Outreach Program. Thank you.
